

Receipt:

I chose receipt as my hub or the thing that holds most of my information from ticket, food_drink, and I accidentally put a line from theater to receipt which I didn't mean to do...oops.

Customer:

I had the customer give information to the receipt and I also had the receipt inside customer so that if a person wanted to see their movie going history, it would be included.

Theater/Now Playing:

Theater was my idea for if someone went online looking for a movie theater to choose and then going to buy a ticket whereas Now Playing was if an old soul skipped the online search and went straight for the brick and mortar theater for a date night or whatever.

I hope this makes sense and I clearly forgot to add these little tidbits to my PDF so I'm sorry there's this second attachment. Hooray!